5:01 PM me: sorry
so, Henry Ford
you may be aware that he was an anti-semite and published a book called The International Jew or you may be unaware of all of this anywho
he accused the Jews of ruining baseball

5:02 PM Hence, in spite of the fact that the rowdyism that has afflicted baseball, especially in the East, is all of Jewish origin — the razzing of umpires, hurling of bottles, ceaseless shouting of profane insults;
That is what baseball was coming to. The whole sport was getting down to an "exhibition game" status. The overtone of "money, money, money" grew louder and louder. The sport aspect of the game was beginning to give way to the "show" aspect.
here were numerous signs that an attempt was being made to "star" certain persons, to run "headliners,"

15 minutes

5:18 PM Andrew: whats going on me: working on web show with this producer fellow out in LA

5:19 PM Andrew: so, its a show about jewish baseball?
me: of course
nah, Henry Ford thing is for something else

5:20 PM Jewish baseball is a digression but Jewish boxing, though Venial sport editors are sometimes induced to write certain laudatory articles along that line, and frequently the name of Benny Leonard is used — Benny Leonard, the light-weight fighter. Benny forms an instructive illustration just along this line. Benny declares that he went into the ring without a scar and that he will leave the ring without a scar. Why?
Because he will let no one hit him. He will go a long way to avoid pain.
The true wrestler risks and often suffers physical pain. So does the true ring fighter. But it is a Jewish characteristic to avoid, if possible, the pain of contest, just as it is a characteristic to avoid unnecessary effort.

5:21 PM apparently this Jew had the nerve to dodge his opponent's blows in an effort to win boxing matches

5:23 PM Andrew: so, your show is about fictional jewish sports heroes?

me: that guy's not fictional 5:24 PM anyway no it is pretty much about Jews for the most part, though insomuch as that the first episode will be about Friedman and later Krauthammer and Cohen
and Peretz 5:25 PM and the producer is Jewish the Hollywood producer
Andrew: oy gevalt
me: !
Andrew: you're going to alienate your conservative base me: no way
I'm going to make it an anti-semitic show 5:26 PM Andrew: with a robot sidekick!
named lasero!
me: called The Conspiracy Among Liberal and Conservative Jews DON'T TELL ME WHAT TO DO
talking pie
Andrew: named lasero!
5:27 PM me: very well wait, you're only half-Jewish you don't know how to entertain Andrew: i know how to half entertain and half frighten thats good enough, right?
5:28 PM me: and you worked at a BBQ restaurant Andrew: its true, I bathed nightly in the blood of the swine me: this bald man has no ideas
anywho
I need to make this show awesome
I need to totally run with the format no half-measures
Andrew: what is the format exactly?
5:29 PM im still very confused me: you know, web show
I know, it's vague basically I go after pundits Andrew: but about jews me: just like in real life but in a web show
Andrew: ok

me: and I'm collecting all of these little clips Andrew: what is sthe structure of single episode me: to use as raw material that's still being decided working on it now, in fact what I'm thinking is 5:30 PM going to make it kind of wild and wacky throw in very short clips from youtube
like of william f buckley being a chump two-second burst
Andrew: ok, so its like a editorial show where you are host & narrator?
or where there is basically an opinionated host & narrator?
me: I'm compiling a sort of sound board of Friedman doing goofy stuff with his hands, more quick one-second clips to make into a single whole with techno music
yes, basically
I'm host 5:31 PM so it's open to whatever we want to do Andrew: ah
me: and we have a studio' production company
Andrew: when does the first episode get produced?
me: no idea, we're still early on in figuring this out 5:32 PM I'm going to screw around with camera and video software and hammer out some ideas maybe make some mock-ups
